Infrastructure Opportunities – asking the right questions

There are many considerations when presented with the challenge of maintaining or creating infrastructure to support the growing need for health care in our communities. This challenge can also be an opportunity, particularly when the right questions are asked:

- When does it make sense to renovate/renew an existing facility versus creating a new facility?
- Approaches to flexibility/adaptability – how does one plan for the future and a truly sustainable facility?